With the new year just around the corner, it is the high time to start planning all the wonderful resolutions to keep during the upcoming year. And that does not only include gym membership card or yoga class registration. It can also include making some awesome changes to your interior. We encourage you to take this opportunity and look at every room every space of your home in an entirely new light.

With this in mind, together with the help of the Austin based award-winning Interior Design studio Etch Design Group, we've come up with a couple of easy-to-achieve 2019 interior design resolutions.

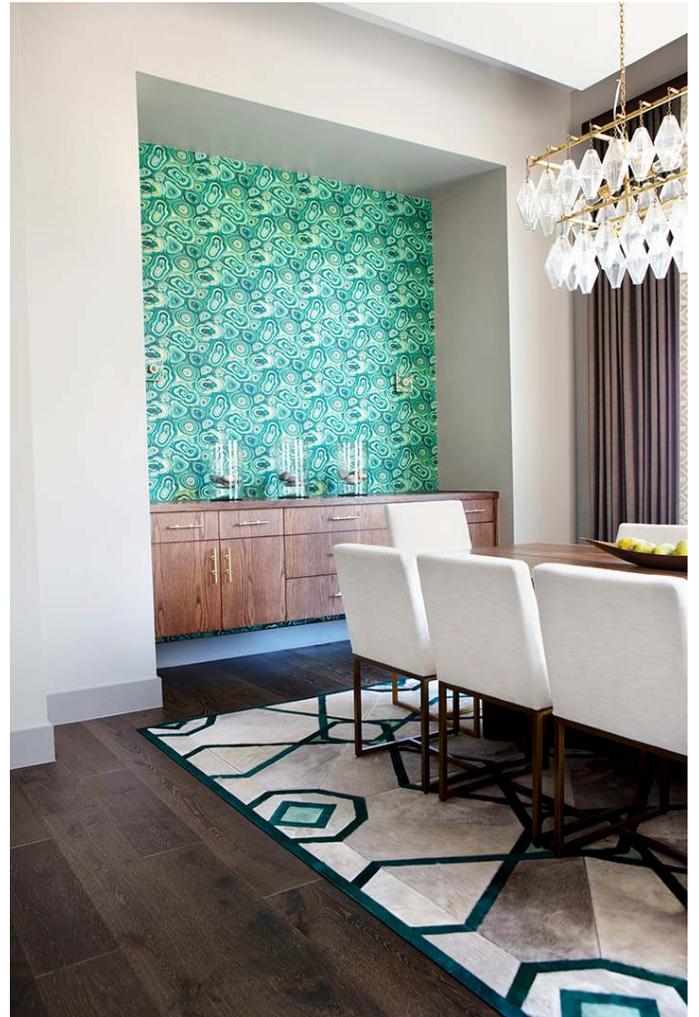

GO BIG WITH COLORS

Dramatic colors are always a fun and adventurous way to stay in trend. It could be either adding a couple of bold accessories like pillows, area rugs or any decor pieces, or discussing with an expert designer and doing something a little more permanent like painting an accent wall or adding an accent piece of furniture.

EXPRESS YOURSELF

Just one piece of eye-catching statement can do a lot to change up your room. Wallpapers could be a great way to make that statement. According to Etch Design Group, there are more options than ever before when it comes to color, texture and pattern in today's wallpapers. And this can be utilized in any of your room starting from the kitchen and getting to the living room.

THINK OUTSIDE THE BOX

Start thinking about redesigning the “not so popular” rooms of your house, like your bathroom. Try to make some adjustments, like installing a marble mosaic floor or adding nice color cabinetry. Choose the room you are planning to redecorate, then consider the room's function. Then just start editing what you have there and come up with ideas that will give a fresh look and feel to your place.

At the end feel free to come up with any extraordinary and creative idea. According to Stephanie Lindsey, NCIDQ certified interior designer in Etch Design Group, “The main resolution in 2019 is to bring a fresh, positive and forward-thinking approach to all of the projects, increasing collaboration and creativity. Design can truly bring people together, and what is New Year all about if not positive vibes and enjoyable friends and family.”
