In a Jack and Jill bathroom for twin boys, architect and interior designer Barry Goralnick drew inspiration from each child's bedroom—one blue and one green—incorporating some of each hue. "The bath was white with touches of each color, separate toilet and shower spaces, twin sinks and plenty of storage for each kid," he says.

06 Maximize Storage

Two people sharing a bathroom equals an increased need for efficient storage. "Carve out all the storage space you possibly can with a modern-day mirrored medicine cabinet that vanishes behind the wall," designer Lynn Stone advises. "It can provide a perfect spot for bathroom essentials and beyond." And don't forget about other forms of hidden storage. "Choose deep vanity drawers over small ones to tuck away products, bottles, and larger items," Stone adds.
