

Best pink paint – 6 rosy shades to suit all styles, as chosen by designers

From rich creamy pinks, pastels to dusty hues, these are some of the best pink paints for your home

(Image credit: James Merrell)

BY ADITI SHARMA MAHESHWARI
PUBLISHED 2 DAYS AGO

Trying to find the best pink paint, or the best any shade of paint, can be a bit of a minefield. As anyone who has searched for 'pink paint' will know, you are met with literally thousands of options. Ranging from vivid fuchsia to a barely-there almost white baby pink, there are so many variations to choose from.

A refreshing, happy, and bright color, pink is just the hue for when you want to add a little cheer to your place. Color trends go through their ebb and flow but there's no question that pink paint is always having a moment and we all want to bring it into our home in some form. So to make finding the best hue a little less daunting, we asked interior designers for their favorite paint brands and pink shades...

2. MALTED MILK, SHERWIN-WILLIAMS – A BLUE TONED LIGHT PINK

(Image credit: Etch Design Group/ Sophiee Pton Photography )

'In this home office, the client wanted a soothing and neutral backdrop with a hint of color. The wallpaper, with soft green and yellow undertones, is paired perfectly alongside the blush pink wainscoting from Sherwin-Williams's Malted Milk, selected for the bottom half of the walls. This subtle pairing completely jazzed up the space and provided just the right amount of visual interest for a home office space,' says Jessica Nelson of Etch Design Group.

For more modern home office ideas, consider layering your pretty pink walls with a statement light or a chandelier that brightens up the color scheme of the room. You could also hang a mirror so the light and the hues of the room bounce around.